Intimate Partner Violence

Home / Patient Care / Intimate Partner Violence

Intimate partner violence (IPV), defined as physical violence, sexual violence, stalking and psychological aggression by a current or former intimate partner, is a pervasive public health problem impacting 1 in 4 women and 1 in 10 men in the US. Children exposed to IPV are at increased risk of being abused and neglected and are more likely to develop adverse health, behavioral, psychological and social disorders later in life.

Pediatricians are an important resource for families experiencing IPV and should be aware of the profound effects of exposure to IPV on children. This page provides resources for pediatricians to recognize and support IPV survivors and their children.

Intimate Partner Violence Overview

Intimate partner violence (IPV) - abuse or aggression that occurs in a romantic relationship, is a significant public health issue. About 35% of female IPV survivors and more than 11% of male IPV survivors experience some form of physical injury related to IPV. IPV can also result in death.
