

Course Title

The Functional Medicine Pediatrics Course

Course Description

This course is designed to teach nurse practitioners about functional medicine with a pediatric perspective so they can integrate this specialty into their practice or for those who already have a solid understanding of functional medicine but would like more advanced education on pediatric considerations. With this approach, the astute nurse practitioner can then identify the root cause of a variety of bothersome symptoms and diseases the patient can be experiencing and then treat that root cause to bring the patient back into optimal health. This course is not merely a learning experience; it's a paradigm shift towards patient care that truly makes a difference.

Course Outcomes

By the conclusion of this module, the student should be able to:

- Describe the intricacies of functional medicine in pediatrics utilizing a holistic, comprehensive, and root cause approach to promoting overall health.
- Explain the concepts of functional medicine related to the pediatric population.
- Distinguish the various clinical aspects and treatments in common pediatric conditions from a functional perspective.
- Recognize how to appropriately utilize a functional approach to evaluate and treat common pediatric conditions such as ear infections, behavioral disorders, dermatological issues, GI complaints, autoimmune, and inflammatory related diseases.
