Do Your Facial Features Define You?

THE STUDY OF PHYSIOGNOMY TODAY

Synopsis for Case File 38, Do Your Facial features Define You?
The Study of Physiognomy Today

How can we use this information in the service of others? How can a “dubious pseudoscience” become a valuable tool, or not? I believe it is worth our serious consideration and curiosity. How can we use this information in the service of others?

Case File 38:

The documents in Do Your Facial Features Define You? include:

- The Facts, Just the Facts

You might begin this study by reading an article titled Physiognomy, the Beautiful Pseudoscience written by Sarah Waldorf in 2012. It is about a 4-minute read. It ends with:

Physiognomy is uncomfortable, messy, and often racist, but I do understand its motivation. The urge to classify, study, and categorize people is based in the desire to understand ourselves more clearly. But for every ideal form, there’s an “other” who also wants to explore herself on her own terms, without being profiled.

We must develop our sixth sense to understand what we are seeing, and to use this information with understanding, love, and compassion—in service of another.

Many of our Case Files include the opportunity to purchase documents and audio files that relate to the mystery. The following items are included in Insider Information for this Case File:

- Chi Analysis (4 ½ hours of audio)

You will receive a 20% discount upon purchase of the items in Insider Information.¹

The emphasis in this Case File is learning some basics. More importantly, we have to continuously ask how best to use this information. We cannot fall into the abyss of judgment or confusion. Without any sense of mastery, we must be cautious. Yet, our continued focus is important. It is up to us to understand and bring to light any benefits we find that will serve a better understanding of human nature.

There is much to learn and work to do!

We hope you continue through the Case Files as you add to your Feng Shui resource library.

¹ You can also purchase these Insider items at www.katherinemetz.com inside The Practitioner's Library. However, the 20% discount is not available there.
